During a regression your body is in a state of relaxation/sleep and your mind is awake and alert. Think of when you are in bed just before falling asleep, completely engulfed in thought, unaware of your external environment, this is what it feels like to be regressed.

Everyone experiences a past life regression in their own way. Frequently, people experiencing a regression for the first time think they have "made up" their experience while in hypnosis or feel they have imagined all of it. But then little things will begin to happen that slowly provide validation to what you experienced. Dates and names from your past lifetime can be traced back in history for validation.

To get the most from your past life regression, keep an open mind and don't analyze your experience during the hypnosis session. You will have plenty of time for that later. Simply let the information flow into your mind without questioning it.

Most people have experienced clues as to their prior incarnations. Are you drawn to a particular country, people or a specific time period, like the Civil War? If the Egyptian architecture attracts your interest you may have lived in Ancient Egypt.

The same is true if you feel negative about a nationality, a place or historic time period. Your soul's experience may not have been to your liking. You may still feel the emotions of love, hate, rejection, or any other emotion that relates to a past life. These are called past life "carryovers" and they can directly relate to the life you are now living. Any strong affinity or aversion is a clue.

When you are instructed to step through the light into a past lifetime you may experience one of several different reactions.

- 1.You may see yourself quite clearly.
- 2.You may find yourself in your body at that time, sensing everything as if you were reliving it.

3.You may see quick impressions and understand what they mean to you.

4.You may only seem to "know" without seeing.

5.You may not see anything, but feel as if someone is telling you what is happening.

Regardless of your initial reaction upon entering your own past, you will need to answer the questions as they are asked. As the regression progresses, you will find the impressions become stronger; the more you verbalize the more detail will become apparent.

If you actively analyze the process while in session, you will only retard the impressions. Your mind is on a journey through your soul's experience of lifetimes. Let it travel freely. Analysis can wait until your session is finished, after you have collected all the data.

You are more integrated with your past lives than you think.

Regression allows you to touch your soul's pool of knowledge.
